Jack Axton

Delivery Manager

About me

I am responsible for combining internal team leadership with managing client relationships and supporting the growth of their technical teams. Coming from a background of operating in the Infrastructure and DevOps market, I have successfully worked with both enterprise level and scale-ups in both the UK and Nordic markets. I am leading a vast team of Consultants within ITR Partners where we focus heavily on business development, candidate sourcing, screening/qualification, and full lifecycle management of the recruitment process. Leading ITR Partners' UK and Nordic Infrastructure and Cloud division, I am responsible for collaborating with some of the leading tech-driven businesses throughout the UK, Norway and Denmark in providing top talent. I pride myself in getting under the skin of clients hiring needs and going to market with a defined strategy to attract the best professionals who can excel in delivering cloud, automation, and migration projects. Engaging with my vast network has allowed me to get an in-depth insight into the tech world and build an invested interest into the ever-changing tech landscape.

Testimonials

It is rare to find someone with so much passion for what he does like Jack. I have talked with Jack over the past year regarding finding a new workspace that I will thrive in. I was very impressed with Jacks ability to understand my needs and how well he matched me with the right workplace. What is nice about working with Jack is that you always end the conversation with a smile. Anyone who is looking for the right place to thrive would be lucky to have Jack in their network
