Recruitment Consultant

About me

I am responsible for connecting talented Software Engineers with in-house and consultancy clients around Norway. My role involves working closely with clients to find their specific requirements, ensuring I deliver the most suitable candidates. Job roles can range from .NET/Java developers, Frontend Engineers, UX Designers to Software Architects. I help clients get a clear picture of the market understanding future trends. I have built up my network significantly in my time here, which allows me to ensure clients goals are successfully met.
